Dharti Aaba Bhagwan Birsa Munda: Protector Of Dharma And Symbol Of Self-respect

The life of Bhagwan Birsa Munda reflects not just an individual's journey, but the collective courage and resilience of a society that preserved its dignity despite centuries of injustice. His 150-year legacy proves that greatness is defined by impact, not lifespan.

Birth and Early Life

Born in Ulihatu, Jharkhand, Birsa Munda came from a simple family but possessed extraordinary talent. During his studies in a missionary school, he witnessed the erosion of tribal culture under foreign rule and resolved firmly to protect his identity and cultural heritage.

Transformation in Tribal Society

Alongside resistance, Birsa Munda showed the path of social reform—through nashamukti, cleanliness, respect for women, girls' education, and dignity of labour. He envisioned a self-reliant, disciplined, and united tribal society.

The Eternal Message of Ulgulan

Against the British attempts to snatch jal-jungle-zameen, Birsa Munda led the Ulgulan. By organizing tribal communities, he launched a decisive movement against exploitative rule and zamindari oppression. The impact of this rebellion forced the British to enact land-right protection laws—an immortal victory of Birsa Munda.

A 150-Year Journey of Inspiration

Tribal rights movements, forest land protection, social awakening, education, cleanliness, nature worship, and the consciousness of self-respect—all bear the foundational imprint of Birsa Munda's thought. Even today, when a vanvasi child receives education, when a sister moves ahead through self-reliance, when a youth takes pride in culture, or when a community stands up for its land rights—the shadow of Birsa Munda is clearly visible.

Strong Steps Towards a Healthy Society: Suposhan Jagrukta Abhiyan

For the past three years, the continuously running Suposhan Jagrukta Abhiyan has emerged as an effective initiative towards eliminating malnutrition. Under this campaign, children aged 0–5 years, adolescent girls aged 6–16 years, and pregnant women are surveyed and made aware of the ill effects of malnutrition, while being guided towards a healthy life through balanced nutrition and healthcare.

In the Sewa bastis of Telangana Prant, this campaign has especially become a ray of hope for adolescent girls. Its success is evident through inspiring health journeys.

The story of G. Bhagyashree is a powerful example. In 2024, while studying in Class 10, her haemoglobin level was only 6.5.

With guidance from the Suposhan programme, nutrition education, and continuous care, by 2025—when she became an Intermediate First Year student—her haemoglobin level rose to 12.5.

Similarly, R. Sahiti benefited from the programme. In 2024, during Class 8, her haemoglobin level was 8.5, which increased to 11.5 in 2025 while studying in Class 9.

The achievement of talented student Sana Rani from Chinna Cherlapalli is equally inspiring. Her haemoglobin level rose from 8.1 in 2024 (Class 7) to 13.6 in 2025 through a nutritious diet, supplements, and regular health check-ups under the Suposhan programme.

These successes prove that the Suposhan Jagrukta Abhiyan is truly laying the foundation for a healthy, empowered, and bright future.
